Thyme with President Helen

"Even if something is left undone, everyone must take time to sit still and watch the leaves turn." Elizabeth Lawrence

There is definitely a feeling of fall in the air. Elizabeth Lawrence must not have the same schedule as I do. I sometimes wish I had the time to follow her advice, though! In my case, I am fortunate to sit at my computer and overlook 12 walnut trees. In mid-September, I reflect on the fact that every single one of those leaves will turn gold and then flutter to the ground. Oh what beauty to behold! But once on the ground, they aren't always so beautiful are they?

~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~

Dealing with all the fall leaves can be an overwhelming task. I must remind myself that it is okay to allow some leaves to accumulate in plant beds, borders, and groundcovers. Sometimes I have to sacrifice aesthetics during the fall and winter seasons to protect the health and well being of my beloved garden when spring arrives. These not-so-attractive but hardworking leaves will decay and add nutrients to the soil and act as mulch and then, come spring, I'll be happy that I let Mother Nature do her job.

Here are some helpful hints to remember when dealing with leaves:

- Leaves can smother your lawn, so never allow them to accumulate on your grass.
- Remove leaves and debris under fruit and nut trees to help prevent peach leaf curl and blossom-end rot.
- G Get rid of fallen camellia flowers to help prevent flower blight.
- Remember that snails, slugs, and earwigs like to winter in moist leaves, so if you have these pests, keep leaves raked up.
- "In the garden, Autumn is, indeed the crowning glory of the year, bringing us the fruition of months of thought and care and toil. And at no season, safe perhaps in Daffodil time, do we get such superb colour effects as from August to November. Rose G. Kingsley, The Autumn Garden.

Hope you all have a glorious October but beware of those ghosts and goblins that will be prowling around on the 31st. Happy Halloween everyone!

ÎIME ÎO GO NAȚIVE by Jerry         California "The Land of Flowers" has over 5,000 species of native plants belonging to over 1,100 genera. With our semi-arid Mediterranean climate hese plants over the ages have developed subtled differences that make them well suited for the local environment and have provided them with natural protection against indigenous pests and diseases. Lake County has been blessed with its fair share of native flora and selection of indigenous plants can better insure their successful growth in your land- scape. Mixtures of California native annual and perennial seeds can be purchased in bulk for $15-$30 per pound and should be sown in late winter or early spring. Mixtures normally includes: California Pop- pies, Clarkias, Lupine, Baby Blue Eyes, and Five- guired.       ber and middle of March. Summer wa- tering (1-inch per week) is recommended for the first two years. Deep irrigation with drip emitters with good drainage is a must. Never flood irrigate. ORNAMENTAL GRASS CARE Never cut back ornamental grasses while green, as they are still harvesting energy to store in their roots. Grasses, browned by cold weather, add appeal to fall and winter gardens and need not be cut back unless they pose a fire hazard. In early March, cut them back to a few inches above the base. Be sure to divide orna- mental grasses if they develop bare centers or outgrow their area—early spring is the best time to do this.		Green Thumbs Op for the Nominating Committee. ## POTLIGHT-GARDEN OF THE MONTH: Barbara and Jay Swanson About twelve years ago I acquired a bunch of eight feet long, thin Fruitless-Mulberry branches that had been trimmed from the tree and discarded. I stuck four branches into each of two large clay pots. Then I wired the two groups of branches together at the top to form an arch. I planted miniature-leafed ivy in each pot. It took several years for the ivy to grow all the way across the arch, but it was worth the wait.

The shelves under the arch hold my collection of Margaret Hudson clay critters. The plaque in the center of the arch was also made for us at the Margaret Hudson Studios.

On the patio table is a very lush Million Bells plant that was given to us the summer of 2010. We were told it would only last the one year but the plant had other ideas. It not only survived the several months of early morning freezes outside but it doubled in size.

September Field Trip: Grace Hudson Museum in Ukiah

We had a good turn out for our first field trip of the year to the Grace Hudson Museum and Sun House in Ukiah. We were pleased to have several members of the Fort Bragg GC join us for the day.

After lunching on the patio, we were treated to a docent tour of the museum which features the impressive Pomo Indian portraits and landscapes painted by Hudson. We enjoyed the extensive collection of Pomo baskets and artifacts. Later we toured the adjacent Sun House, the Hudsons' charming 1911 redwood Craftsman bungalow home. The gardens are a work in progress. We were told they received a grant to develop a native plant garden on the grounds.

CROPS IN POTS

by Doris Ellsworth

Winter Vegetable Gardening in Containers

I have a reminder on my calendar to be sure and plant vegetables by the second week in October (the most opportune time temperature-wise and the ground is still warm)

All you need is 3 to 5 gal pots (5 gal for broccoli and Swiss chard), a couple bags of potting soil that already has fertilizer added, one plant per container. If the weather is still hot, protect by covering with something like shade cloth until roots establish. If you're restricted to only a couple of vegetables (they need to have sun), I'd suggest dark green leaf vegetables: Swiss Chard (red is best), Kale, Collards, and Broccoli (the leaves have the most nutrition).

Kale is even better tasting after a 'kiss of frost'. Favorite Kales: 'Toscana' and 'Lacinato'. After the plant gets larger, start harvesting the outer green leaves only, not the whole plant. This way you have continued growth and plenty of leaves to harvest. Leaves can be mixed together and steamed or used in soups, stews, etc.

Containers of mixed lettuces (some shade) can be harvested one leaf at a time or with scissors cut 1" above soil and it will re-grow one or two more heads.

Celery is also very useful, though it doesn't produce a finished product head. Any time you need celery flavor for soups and stews, it's right there for you in leaf form.

If you have a sunny wall, you can grow sugar snap peas by making a trellis (heavy string will work).

These are great producers and delicious, pod and all-raw. I grow sweet peas in front of the sugar snap peas. The sweet peas use the sugar snap pea vines for support when in bloom.

Pot-up herbs and bring inside near a sunny window. I especially use a lot of parsley and different chives. Do not let any of them bloom as this will affect flavor. Basil will keep a couple weeks in a water vase in the refrigerator. You can freeze basil either as a pesto or whirled in a blender with enough water to make a thick sauce. I then put sauce in ice cubes to freeze / then bag up.

Lots and lots of other vegetables grow best in cool weather if you have the room and sun.

Happy Winter Garden-Doris Ellsworth.
